9. With reference to the NIS publications listed in 4, above, what are the major shortcomings you have found in the NIS? (Please relate these to your own needs, considering adequacy of coverage, reliability of content, currency, length and detail of presentation, and security classification.)

Obsolescence (sp?), though I don't see how this can be avoided. And see it, the NIS performs the great service of establishing a checklist toward which USG intelligence and research agencies direct their efforts. The publication is valuable as a source -- but even more basic is the fact that some agency has gotten organized to obtain each type of information, and may be able to up-date the published NIS report as needed.

(answer may be continued on the reverse)

10. What specific suggestions can you make for improving the content (including graphics), coverage, organization, and format of NIS units?

The loose-leaf format for biographies has been a great improvement -- whether or not you still label it NIS. It might be useful to study possibilities of applying the same format to other chapters.
